Brown, Mitchell & Alexander, Inc. (BMA) was retained by Studio South Architects to provide civil engineering services for the construction of the Infinity Science Center, a 60,000 square foot facility near Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, MS. Civil engineering services provided for utilities, grading, drainage, & sitework inclusive of a water well, storage and piping, sewer collection system, on-site wastewater treatment / disposal system, drainage system (including bio-retention cells for stormwater quality), erosion control and other improvements.

The project is currently under construction and will be completed in three phases—site-work, building & parking lot paving. Total project cost will exceed $20 million.

Summary of the Scope of Services included:

- Civil Design
- Development of Contract Documents, Specifications, and Construction Plans
- Construction Administration and Observation Services
- Environmental Permit Coordination
- Surveying